

Expanding Horizons: The Role of Virtual Exchange in Language Learning and Global Competence

International Researcher/Scholar Roundtable on Virtual Exchange Collaboration

Location:

Hannan University, Abeno Harukasu Campus, Osaka, Japan and Online

Date:

November 6, 2025, 3:00 PM

Prior to the International symposium on virtual exchange to be held in Osaka on November 8th, 2025

(<https://www.vejapan.com/>), researchers, educators and scholars from Japan and around the world are invited to convene at the Harukasu Campus of Hannan University in Osaka, Japan on November 6th, 2025 at 3:00 pm for a strategic meeting to explore future opportunities in international collaboration. It is planned that this gathering will provide an opportunity for those working in the fields of language education and cross-cultural studies to share their expertise and experiences, and in doing so identify innovative ways of building international cooperation amongst institutions of higher education.

By connecting specialists across institutions and disciplines, the meeting is designed to identify practical pathways toward meaningful and sustainable partnerships, and to foster initiatives that expand intercultural understanding, strengthen digital and global competencies, and enhance the international reach of higher education.

The outcomes of this meeting are expected to contribute to the development of cross-border collaborations, which have the potential to place participating institutions at the forefront of global engagement in higher education.

The event will take place in person in Osaka.
